Knight Lab is a community of designers, developers, students, and educators working on experiments designed to push journalism into new spaces. The lab provides an open, collaborative environment for interdisciplinary exploration and conversation, where students and professionals learn together and from one another. The lab’s primary aims are to experiment with new story forms in emergent platforms, to enable journalists to tell better stories with data, and to create open-source digital storytelling tools.